WHAT CAN YOU DO TO PROTECT YOURSELF FROM DISCRIMINATION?

If you notice any signs of housing discrimination, it is important to:

1. Document everything you see. Take notes on any application requirements, and the name and contact information of anyone you speak to. Keep copies of any rental ads, voicemails or emails.

2. Ensure you fully understand the terms of your lease before signing. Unless the property receives federal funding, the landlord has no obligation to provide an interpreter but you have the right to bring your own.

DID YOU KNOW?

If the contract is negotiated in Spanish, Chinese, Tagalog, Vietnamese, or Korean without an interpreter, the landlord must provide the contract in the same language.

It is illegal for a landlord to treat you differently because of your birthplace, ethnicity, culture, or ancestry. This includes refusing to rent an available unit, make necessary repairs to the unit, or harassing you because of your perceived national origin.

In California, immigration status and primary language are protected classes. It is illegal for your landlord to treat you differently because your primary language is something other than English.

Housing discrimination is illegal. Call Project Sentinel at (888)-324-7468, TTY 711 for help.
It is illegal for a landlord to treat you differently because of your birthplace, ethnicity, culture, or ancestry. This includes refusing to rent an available unit, make necessary repairs to the unit, or harassing you because of your perceived national origin.

Discrimination based on citizenship/immigration status, race, color, and primary language are characteristics that a landlord might use to discriminate because of your national origin.

RETALIATION

You have a right to exercise your renter’s rights, including your fair housing rights.

It is illegal for your landlord to harass, attempt to evict, raise the rent or take any other kind of retaliatory action because you did any of the following:

Federal protected categories include:
- Race
- Color
- National Origin
- Religion

Housing discrimination occurs when anyone involved with housing—including property managers, owners and mobile home parks—treats home seekers/renters differently because of a protected category:

California protected classes include:
- Primary language
- Citizenship or immigration status
- Sexual Orientation
- Source of income
- Age
- Marital status
- Familial Status

Or any other arbitrary characteristic that is unrelated to a person’s ability to be a good tenant.

What is national origin discrimination?

i. Filed a fair housing discrimination complaint
ii. Contacted a fair housing agency, like Project Sentinel, for help
iii. Requested a maintenance repair
iv. Complained to the landlord about illegal or unsafe living conditions
v. Reported to an appropriate agency such as a local code enforcement agency about illegal or unsafe living conditions

Did you know? A landlord cannot terminate a tenancy based on your immigration or citizenship status.
